The Centre for Biological Engineering
Document Ref: QS-POL-001	Version N°:	1.0	Issue Date:	January 2016

The Centre for Biological Engineering (CBE) is committed to the delivery of high quality translational research programmes under the scope of the Quality Manual that meet or exceed the requirements and expectations of our stakeholders and collaborators, while maintaining compliance with current legislation and applicable regulatory, licensing standards and national and local ethical guidelines.

The CBE shall promote a collective commitment to good professional practice and continual improvement in the quality of our research processes and outcomes. To assure and maintain the quality standards of this research and the health and safety of its personnel, its visitors and the wider environment, the CBE shall develop and operate under a Quality Management System (QMS) to integrate the organisational and operational procedures, processes and resources involved.

The CBE shall ensure that all appropriate CBE staff are familiar with the policy and all processes and procedures relevant to their work; shall ensure that staff responsible for operating under the policy are trained appropriately and that this is recorded; shall ensure that appropriate staff, equipment and resources are available for the running of the QMS; shall undertake internal audits of the system to produce continuing quality improvement in the CBE's research and QMS.
